My SUPREME Goals for Permanent Results
My OPTIMAL Notes
How to Get Started

To optimize your results from this nine-day audio program, set aside a specific time each day (approximately 30 minutes) to:

1. Listen to your audio CD.
2. Complete the Optimal action steps in your workbook.

As you listen to the Optimal Thinking: Nine Optimal Days Toward Permanent Results Audio Program, you will optimize your thinking and behavior. You may listen to the program in your car, at home or in a location that works best for you. I recommend that you start a notebook so that additional notes, projects, and questions are located in one place. Keep your daily calendar handy.

I have included the Table of Contents of the 100-Day Optimal Thinking Audio-CD Program for Permanent Results so that you can see how you can best make Optimal Thinking second nature.

NOTE: Disc and track references in parentheses throughout the workbook refer to the specific audio CD on which you can find relevant information. Page references in parentheses refer to the Optimal Thinking: How to Be Your Best Self book by Rosalene Glickman, Ph.D. (John Wiley & Sons, Inc., 2002). Online references in parentheses are provided on specific days for participants who prefer online activities. For example, (Disc 1, Tracks 1–2; pp. 4–5; www.optimalthinking.com/audio/day1.html).

CONGRATULATIONS on taking this quantum leap to optimize your personal life and career. Please keep in touch. Let me know how this program has impacted your life. You can contact me at audioauthor@optimalthinking.com.

Introduction

Hailed as “the successor to positive thinking,” Optimal Thinking is the mental resource you need to achieve your ultimate personal life and career. This revolutionary, multi-sensory program shows you how simple it is to sweep past the good and the great into the world of the highest and best. You will never settle for second best again!

The Optimal Thinking: Nine Optimal Days Toward Permanent Results Audio Program empowers you to maximize your talents, resources and time. You learn how to make the most of every opportunity and achieve optimal personal and professional satisfaction. Optimal Thinking gives you the best chance of creating anything and everything you will ever want.

By following the instructions in your workbook and taking the prescribed Optimal action steps on a daily basis, you will implement Optimal Thinking to optimize your results. When Optimal Thinking is habitual, you will consistently optimize—not just manage or improve—your personal and professional life.

You may feel that you are already using Optimal Thinking in various areas of your life. By completing all of the Optimal action steps, you will discover new ways to implement Optimal Thinking for yourself, and learn how to empower others to optimize their performance.

You’ll learn how to:

- Be your best in every situation
- Ask the best questions and obtain the best solutions
- Make the most constructive decisions in every situation
- Optimize your mental, emotional and financial intelligence
- Experience the full power of your mind
- Generate boundless energy and persistence
- Maximize your enjoyment of daily activities
- Function at your peak in business and personal relationships
- Bring out the best in others and much more!

My score: ________________________    Date:__________________________________

My dominant level of thinking: ________________________________
If your score is 70–75, you are already using Optimal Thinking consistently. This program will validate your thinking and provide you with many new ways to optimize your thinking and your life.

If your score is 46–69, your thinking is extraordinary, but is not always in your best interest. Optimal Thinking will empower you to maximize your talents, resources, and time. You will acquire the mental software to be your best in every situation.

If your score is 16–45, your dominant thinking level is mediocre. You think in moderate, middle-of-the-road terms. With Optimal Thinking, you will gain the mental tool to support your best interests. You will then be equipped to make the wisest choices in every situation, and make the most of your life.

If your score is 0–15, your dominant thinking level is negative. You are probably feeling distressed right now and may be wondering if it is possible to get your life on track. I want to assure you that this program will provide you with the mental tool to be your best and empower you to create your best life. Optimal Thinking is simple, immediately applicable, and does not require a leap of faith. You are on the right path.

Day 2. Optimal Thinking: The Next Step Beyond Positive Thinking; Suboptimal Thinking (Disc 1, Tracks 3–5; pp. 7–11)

Optimal Action Step 1: Estimate the percentage of time you invest in the following forms of suboptimal thinking:

- Negative thinking _______ %
- Mediocre positive thinking _______ %
- Extraordinarily positive thinking _______ %

Optimal Action Step 2: Think about when you are most likely to use suboptimal thinking. For example, you may wish to explore when you complain, avoid situations, dwell on unresolved conflict, or settle for second best.

Optimal Action Step 3: Talk to two people who are important to you. Notice their level of thinking. Write down your observations.
Day 3. What Is Optimal Thinking? (Disc 1, Track 6; pp. 11–13)

Optimal Action Step 1: Make the choice to be your best self regardless of the circumstances. Consciously choose Optimal Thinking to express yourself, and answer the following questions:

- What is most important to me?

- What’s my major objective?
• Which resources will be most beneficial in helping me to achieve it?

• What are my greatest talents and abilities?

• How can I make the best use of them?

• What is the most constructive action I can take right now?

• Who are the right people with whom to share my goals and dreams?

• How can I optimize my gratitude for life?

Optimal Action Step 2: If you run a business or work for a company, you can maximize the company’s success using Optimal Thinking. Answer the following Optimal questions:

• What are the greatest strengths of this company?
• Who are our most valuable employees?

• Who are our best customers?

• What are their most important needs?

• What are our most beneficial products/services?

• What are our most profitable products/services?

• How can we make the most of these strengths?

• What are our greatest weaknesses?

• What’s the best way to minimize them?
Day 4. Who Thinks Optimally? (Disc 1, Tracks 7–8; pp. 13–16)

Optimal Action Step 1: Identify the Optimal Thinkers in your family, social circle and at work. Write down their names in the space below.

Optimal Action Step 2: Scan your daily newspaper, listen to the radio or turn on your television. Notice who is thinking Optimally and write down two Optimal statements in the space below.

Optimal Action Step 3: How much of your time is invested in Optimal Thinking?

_______ %

Day 5. Take the Quantum Leap! (Disc 1, Track 9; pp. 16–18)

Optimal Action Step 1: Think about a current situation in which you are settling for second best. Employ Optimal Thinking to optimize the situation. Write down the results.

Optimal Action Step 2: Identify a suboptimal thinker in your life. Arrange a time and place to speak with this person. Take the quantum leap by consciously choosing Optimal Thinking to optimize the interaction.
Day 6. Why Positive Thinking Falls Short, Part 1

1. Positive Thinking Is Often Used to Suppress Negativity
2. Positive Thinking Is Often No More Than Wishful Thinking

(Disc 2, Tracks 1–4; pp. 18–24)

Optimal Action Step 1: Think about a negative idea, feeling, or experience you have suppressed. Write it down. What are the best actions you can take to resolve it? Jot these down. Now prioritize these actions and decide upon the best time frames to complete them.

Optimal Action Step 2: Write down your greatest wish. Is it realistic? Underneath your wish, write down: “What’s the best thing I can do under the circumstances?” Note your response and decide upon the best time to take your first Optimal action step.

Day 7. Why Positive Thinking Falls Short, Part 2

3. There Are Various Shades of Positive Thinking
4. Suboptimal Thinking Is Not The Mental Basis of Peak Performance

(Disc 2, Tracks 5–7; pp. 24–30)

Optimal Action Step 1: Write down one behavior that reflects suboptimal thinking and performance you are ready to change. For example, you might notice that your diet is suboptimal, or that you are not making the best use of your time when dealing with a family member or friend. Optimize your thinking by asking: What’s the best thing I can do about this? Write down your answer. Now decide upon the time frame that will work best for you to optimize your performance.
Optimal Action Step 2: Make a list of all the people who are important to you, and write down the level of thinking you believe they are most comfortable with. Now jot down one Optimal question or statement you would like to use when you next speak with each person. Refer to the sample listing below to help you formulate your own:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Dominant Thinking Level</th>
<th>Optimal Question or Statement</th>
</tr>

</tbody>
</table>

Day 8. Why Positive Thinking Falls Short, Part 3

5. If We Don’t Maximize a Situation, We Don’t Complete It
(Disc 2, Tracks 8–9; pp. 30–33)

Optimal Action Step 1: Answer the Optimal questions below:

- When am I most likely to think Optimally?

- Am I embracing suboptimal thinking and behavior and optimizing it?

  Yes (   )  No (   )
• Am I accepting what is out of my control and optimizing what is within my control?
  Yes (   )      No (   )

• Am I choosing the best and then putting my issues to rest?
  Yes (   )      No (   )

• What is the best thing I can do under the circumstances?

Optimal Action Step 2: As soon as you notice yourself thinking negatively, embrace this vulnerable part of yourself without judgment. Ask: “What’s causing this? What is the best thing I can do about it? What’s the best solution?”

Optimal Action Step 3: Notice when someone you know is thinking negatively. Instead of avoiding them, determine if they are open to input. You might say: “I’m sorry this is a problem for you. Can I help you resolve it? What do you think is the best thing you can do about it? What are your options? What’s the best solution?” If the person is too angry to be reasonable or is intent on maintaining a negative perspective, you could say: “I understand you are upset at the moment. When you are open to finding the best solution to this issue, I will be happy to give you my most constructive input.”

Day 9. Review Day (Disc 2, Track 10; pp. 7–33)

Optimal Action Step 1: Review all the previous information in your workbook and notebook.

Optimal Action Step 2: Write down the greatest insight you have gained as a result of participating in this program.

Optimal Action Step 3: Share a meal with a family member or friend. Consciously choose to use Optimal Thinking, and optimize, optimize, optimize! Write down your experience in the space below.
100-Day Program Overview

This program is based on a three-step optimization strategy:

Part 1: Help Yourself to Optimal Thinking
Part 2: Optimize Yourself
Part 3: Optimize Others

In Part 1, you discover why Optimal Thinking is the next step beyond positive thinking, and define what Optimal means to you. You observe people who make the most of their lives by using Optimal Thinking. You learn how to use Optimal Thinking consistently so that you can be your best self habitually and experience the best of life.

In Part 2, you discover how to optimize yourself. You learn how to achieve Optimal self-esteem. You discover your ultimate direction and plan your best life. You also learn how to optimize your feelings and achieve emotional mastery.

In Part 3, you learn how to optimize others. You discover how to maximize your communications with all types of people in all situations, and how to utilize Optimal Thinking at work. You then learn how to lead others with your best self in charge—and achieve the best results.

Audio Program Components

To make your Optimal Thinking: How to Be Your Best Self 100-Day Audio Program for Permanent Results as rewarding as possible, we provide materials in a variety of formats:

12 Audio CD’s: Conveniently included in two separate audio holders, the audio program is optimized for multi-sensory learning. You will find text from the author’s best-selling book Optimal Thinking: How to Be Your Best, additional information, activities and exercises.

Home Study Optimization Workbook: This workbook is divided into three parts, and is an essential element of the Optimal Thinking audio program. You will complete questionnaires, Optimal action steps and exercises to make Optimal Thinking a permanent part of your everyday life.

Online Workbook: The online workbook contains select questionnaires and colorful graphics to monitor your progress.

Book: We include the author’s book Optimal Thinking: How to Be Your Best Self to maximize your learning experience.
Personal Coaching Option: This stand-alone program can be completed without outside assistance. However, many people perform optimally when they receive feedback and support from others. For this reason, the author and a team of certified Optimal Thinking trainers are available to provide personal coaching (in person or via the telephone) on a regular basis for the duration of this program. If you would like information about this option, please call us at (310) 461-1446 or email us at audiocoach@optimalthinking.com.

Executive Coaching/Consulting Option: We provide customized coaching and consulting for leaders (on-site or via the telephone) who want to optimize their companies, departments and teams. If you would like information about this option, please call us at (310) 461-1446 or email us at audioexecoach@optimalthinking.com.

Group Coaching Options: We provide group teleclasses, video teleconferencing and internet conferencing to supplement this 100-day audio program. If you would like information about these options, please call us at (310) 461-1446 or email us at audiogroupcoach@optimalthinking.com.
